

Name

_____ morning Sarah _____ her summer days by going to the pond _____ breakfast. At the pond _____ geese and swans _____ greeted her. She loved _____ types of birds and played with them throughout the summer. Then one crisp autumn morning Sarah found that her birds were _____. Sarah's mother explained that the birds flew to a warmer place to live during the winter. Sarah loved her birds so much she studied ornithology, or the study of birds, at school.
As an adult, Federal Wildlife Agent Sarah _____ to the marshes most days, keeping an eye on her birds as she _____ her job.